Birdseye View of Shaw High School

FOREWORD

THE PURPOSE OF THIS ANNUAL OF 1933 IS THAT OF AFFORDING US A REMEMBRANCE OF OUR HIGH SCHOOL DAYS AND FRIENDS. SINCE WE STUDENTS OF SHAW HIGH SCHOOL WILL SOON SEPARATE TO DIFFERENT PARTS OF THE COUNTRY, BUT WILL BE HELD CLOSER TOGETHER BY THE RADIO, WE MAKE "RADIO" THE THEME OF THIS ANNUAL.

Society, Stage, and Screen News

EDITORIAL

It is the policy of this paper to recommend to its readers a course of action concerning important public affairs.

Now the presidential election is within reach concern among the political leaders of the country. Their plan disregard the unusual and spectacular in this campaign. Forget that women figure in this election. Instead, base your final decisions on the individual merit of each candidate.

So the Crier advises. "Vote do not depend on women deserve to win the election, they do not want to win because they are attractive candidates, but because they are the 'better men', and have fairly won their election."

Book Notes

One of our favorite authors and poets is Marjorie Finsdale, who writes delightful child poetry. The youngest will love her book, "Fitter". The poem which particularly caught our eye is this one, called "Fate":

"O have him went,
O have him gone,
O have him left I all alone
Alone
Him can never come to we,
I can never go to he,
O cruel fate, to I
To take him 'for, and leave I behind"

Best descriptions image of a sunset, "with rapier of clouds" using the glor sun." It describes his sister's beautiful painting, for Maxine Park.

'Red Price has written a popular sort of book, for it tells how to study chemistry in the quickest and best way. The name of it is "More with Less Time."

Tennis enthusiasts will be happy to see a book by Raymond Lewkowsky on the ins and outs of that sport. He has been one of the country's leading tennis players for years, so his book should be in great demand.

SOCIETY NEWS

Earl Goss opened his newest hotel "The Five Fingers," more popularly known as "The Palm," in St. Petersburg last night. Don Aruff's orchestra furnished the music for this event, while June Melinger entertained the guests with her original dances and songs.

Among the

with Eleanor McIlhenny, the famous woman radio announcer, and Margaret Moody, the auburn-haired singer. Bobo escorted by the producer of this hit, Glenn Kadil.

Miss Marie, charming hostess of New York's select society, will give a ball for charity this Saturday evening in the Ball Room of the Hotel Derby. Jeanne Hehr and Virginia King, prominent social belles, will assist Miss Newman.

"Pa-ta-tara," will blast the horns on next Thursday morning as the "To Horse and Away Society" stage their annual fox hunt among the beautiful hills of the owner of the university, "Hazz Arthur King announces that he is going to Europe for the season, and is now off-bidder.

PETER PINCHELL

Did you hear the latest? Bob Deutsch, New England's crack reporter, tried to amble in on the Van Horn, the stage star,—just for an interview,—he says—and was thrown for the loss of ten stories and his dignity. My, my, Bob, didn't you know Van Horn's "Gione Garbo" and seen newspapermen only to the door? (Even if wrapped in cello-lous way, "Crack Reporter" really must be a big shot, this does not mean golfer, is now sending roses to somebody or something, and it mean to a funnier. Ever since he saw that great little musical comedy "Where There's a Will There's a Way" (Have you forgotten its star?)

Lala Williams, formerly a poorly paid artist's model, has been offered a stellar role in Warner's "Here and There." For a while she played part in a stock company. All this while she was hiding her light under a bushel, when real stars should twinkle brilliantly. How could you, Lala?

As we have a heart, Mister. For instance, Norman Carlson's kind act of selling his country home to give a complete library to the County Hospital.

George Beck, the aviator who's taking so many hearts for the last few days, is flying high now himself with a nice, new, shiny trimotor production at the Carabell Airlines. The idea to retire, you, Joe, to Europe?

Well, little Peter's getting yawnny, so he'll say as did dear old Popsy, his grandpapa's fifth cousin, "and so to bed."

Howing the year 1929 sentiment for the "bad old days" makes it possible for these girls to capitalize on a calamity

ARTISTS' NOTES

Buncee Hawkins and Pat Graham, prominent New York artists, have their latest works displayed at the Art Museum this week. Miss Hawkins is best known for her portraits of dogs.

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer new "favorite" now, Florence and Douglas Brown both play in Robert Kingsley's great "Storm Haven." But it is rumored by those who saw the preview that Donna Miller, who plays the part of the maid, steals the show.

And talking about great acting, the character parts done by Ruth Kraus and Ellen East in the Broadway play, "Secretary Smith," is worth the price of admission alone.

A new dance team of Dick Holmeyer and Eleanor Kishy is featuring a step that is becoming tremendously popular called "Alabama Side", created by Gordon Weigle.

A new film of the process of refining gold will be taken at the Yarosh Studios. It will be under the direction of the well known metallurgist, Harold Seltz.

Nadine Stoll, the owner of the largest greenhouse in the world, is giving thousands of dollars worth of flowers to her friend, Margaret Pew, at the opening of the latter's Sunshine Memorial Hospital.

Philonema Slena, professor of dramatic criticism at Connecticut College, is opening a new course there in maid training.

Betty Risley, one of Boston's outstanding musicians, is going to Buffalo to direct the Buffalo Symphony Orchestra. Her salary will be something like $15,000 a year, 'tis rumored. But then, money talks you know.

Hilda Baldwin, novelist and pay wright has just returned from London where she obtained "atmosphere" for her latest play of English life. It is to be called "Merry New Year".

HEEDER WINS 60 DAY RACE

and old man" grunting spectators, Ray Heeder won the race last night that has been drawing crowds of thrill-seeking patrons. The 60 day race proved to be one of the most exciting in bike history, for competition was keen, and the spills plentiful.

Heeder grinned cheerfully as he crossed the prize gold cup, and said: "It sure was a tough race, but it was worth it."

This was one of the best bicycling races ever held, and will be remembered for years.

Acrobats Perform Here

Misses Dorothy Woodrich and Alta Witte, well-known acrobats, are giving a performance at the auditorium.

Agile athletes perfected some remarkable and complicated feats that have surpassed even the work of Liliam Lottized, the famous performer of the days way back in the "Little Ticks" will be at cents.

'MISS AMERICA' CONTEST TIES TWO ATHLETES

Miss Marion Tissot and Miss Frances Lothrop have tied for first place in the contest sponsored by the National Athletic Association of America. The most perfect athletes in the country.

Girls, who were eager to split the honors granted them, were so close that they were tied.

Miss Tissot blushed charmingly when interviewed and stuttered: "Gee, I'm awfully thrilled, and Franny and I feel greatly honored."

Miss Lothrop laughed: "What Marion said goes for me, too."

ATLANTA GIRL WINS CONTEST

Finishes With 98.8 Score

At a recent convention of the Chiropractors of America, over 100 girls from all over the United States were examined for the "Perfect Physique." The results have been announced at last, the "Modern Venus" has been named.

Miss Norma Quiggle, president of the league, presented Miss Toy of Atlanta, Georgia, with a medal and an award.

Miss Rasmussen was 98.8.

Miss Rasmussen said she owed her health to fruit and vegetables that she maintains, and to the basketball playing she does.

SPORTS IN MOVIES Star Does Football Film

Hollywood is now offering the world something new in sport pictures. At present Howard Pearce, football star who was chosen All-American two years ago and who has since made a name for himself as coach at Michigan, is under contract.

Pearce will make 12 films on the fundamental rules of football, called "Football in Twelve Lessons." There will be a new lesson each week.

The work will be done in six weeks.

Mohagan is now undecided as to whether it is better to keep Pearce as coach with an increase in salary, or to let him go to Yale which is bidding for his services at present.

SCHOOL ENDOWED

Miss Wilma Miller, Miss Fran Practical, and Miss Helen Barrow, Miss Krug's secretary, are giving in her place the check to the athletic figure in the last Olympic games.

"I hope this money will help in giving more young people a chance to be strong and healthy," Miss Barrow said. "I hope to promote education among those who otherwise could not know."

Tennis Team Stars

The high-jump record was broken by the United States women's team, and the shot put, has been taken up by the United States.

The United States women's team, ranking star number three, came out the victors in the 1, 6-3, 4-6, 6-3, 4-6.

Coach Meltzer Resigns

Meltzer, football coach at Stanford University, has resigned.

Meltzer, who has been coaching at Stanford for five years, and has made a name for himself developing the new type of normal attack that has helped Stanford to come through the past with but one defeat.

MANY STARS OF LAST OLYMPICS VISIT SOCIETY

Now that the Olympics are over, most of the athletes are leaving China and the Chinkiang Shantung Stadium to wend their various ways home. However, Cleveland's select society is expecting many of the stars to come directly to Cleveland to give an exhibition "Olympiad" for the city.

Among the stars who accepted, and who will soon arrive in Cleveland, are Edward and his wife, and his wife.

Neve Tucker, who is called a combination of Georgia, Colman, and Dorothy Poynton, is expected to duplicate some of her marvelous athletic feats of the Long Pool here in Cleveland. She was able to pile up more points than any other individual in the Olympics.

Michael, who is called a combination of Georgia, Colman, and Dorothy Poynton, is expected to duplicate some of her marvelous athletic feats of the Long Pool here in Cleveland. She was able to pile up more points than any other individual in the Olympics.

Marvin Hackett, who now lives in New York, but who was a resident of Cleveland for a few years, has also wired that he is leaving immediately for this city. He broke his own world record in the 100 yard race, and set a second in high point scoring.

Bob Balstad, who so called the United States Olympic Team to first place, is expected sometime tomorrow.

NEW GRAPEFRUIT HELPS HUMANITY

Mr. Robert Bittle, gifted horticulturist, appeared last night in the Audio Auditorium, with the product of his plant experiment, the Florida seedless grapefruit.

Frank Watson, Squirtless Grapefruit.

Mr. Bittle supported the professor's statement, "This type of citrus fruit will minimize the caused by acid." When asked by a student, "You need not take our word for it," and invited the doubters to try sample fruit.

Hadsell Retires

Phil Hadsell, the famous youth who has made a fortune from color ads, announces that he now intends to retire.

New styles were successfully introduced by Hadsell, and his famous face is undoubtedly one of the best known in the country.

Scot Stands Guard

At five o'clock, "Scottie," a small dog, stands patiently at the main entrance of the Gow textile company, waiting for his master, the president of the establishment.

The cunning little fellow, with a huge plaid bow about his neck, or misses a day, rain or shine, but stands guard with eager eye, sitting his master with wagging tail.

Mr. D. Lawrence Gow, pup, has entered him in the proud owner of this many contests, claiming he is the "finest Scot in the world."

NEW INVENTION Wistar Gets Contract

Charles Wistar, America's foremost electrical engineer and inventor, has received a contract from the Wolfe Airway company to design the new airplane.

The "electrical man" makes up berths, turns lights on and off, and when finished, in ten minutes will take or serve as desired.

Mr. Walter Wolfe, who is one of the best known in the country, plans to use the "electrical man" in his new airplane.

Dictionary Revised

The whole English speaking world will be affected by Miss Charlotte Beecher's latest effort. This famous orthographer has devoted several years to revising the old 1933 edition of Webster's Dictionary.

All difficult words have been spelled more simply. Miss Beecher says, "And now even a baby can read the dictionary." She is one of the best authorities on spelling and it is prophesied that her book will sell well.

There has been much discussion about Miss Beecher's book, but she considers it the only modern thing.

PROFESSOR WRITES LONGEST BOOK

Copy-Reader Going Blind

Lawrence Lyman, professor at the University of Oregon, is now working on what he claims will be the longest book in the world. It is about 2,000 pages, and is not yet completed.

The subject for his long dissertation is "Placing of the Copy-Reader." He is a world-wide authority on punctuation, and puts forth all his theories on the comma in this book.

His copy and proof-reader, Albert Libhaber, is now having serious eye trouble after copy-reading Professor Lyman's latest literary effort.

WILLIAM BRUSMAN "TAKES" MOON

William Brusman has again achieved success. His latest striking photograph of the moon has caused even the most blasé photographers and the general public to sit up and take notice. Mr. Brusman was formerly one of America's better known radio announcers.

Mr. Brusman stated during this exclusive interview, "A portrait like this will prove very handy for lovers when the weather does not suit the original idea" to appear.

"Day Dreams" Finished

After a year of the piece of music, Miss Ruth Lyman has now finished a new song, "The Day Dreams Forever," which the public has been waiting for.

She is working on the contract with Warner Brothers stipulating she is to write all the music for their newest musical comedy, "Here and There."

PAIR TO BREAK RECORD

Will they break it yet? Misses Donna Miller and Millie Ketchum, when they were interviewed concerning the altitude parachute jump.

They failed in an attempt last week, but are preparing to try again. "I am sure we shall succeed," Miss Ketchum is a fine pilot, and I am feeling great," said Miss Miller, the parachute jumper.

WOMEN'S PLANE CRASHES

Miss June Carmean and Miss Marion Honeter of Wheeling, West Virginia, traveling in Turkey, narrowly escaped injury when their plane crashed near Constantinople.

The women were pulled from their burning monoplane by natives who rushed them to a hospital in Constantinople. There they were reported resting quietly after the shock.

January Hall of Fame

SO YOU graduated from Shaw, at?" the elderly, rather absent-minded gentleman remarked. "And in what year, might I ask?"

"January '33," we replied promptly. Could we ever forget?

"Ah! Indeed? At that time I was a young man, ladies, and a teacher at Shaw. You recognize me, do you not? Ah, well. It has been a long time. But who were some of the members of your class? Perhaps I may remember them."

We eyed each other doubtfully. "Well?" It had been a long time. "Oh, there was—" one by one, our memories popped into our heads, and we found that we remembered:

Charles Wistar—Because he's been "President" four times in two years.

Marion Tissot—Because, while she may have had numerous encounters with Mr. Lowden, she has had a perfect record of attendance since second grade.

Howard Pearce—Because he is not only a proficient athlete, but also a member of the Honor Society.

Virginia Booth—Because being first in one's class would make anyone famous.

Lawrence Gow—Because (with remarks) although he's Scotch he's very generous.

Marvin Salomon — Because ( $\text{Pb}(\text{C}^2\text{H}^3\text{O}^2)3\text{Ho}^2$ ) never baffled him.

Ruth Fraley—Just because.

Jane Warwick—Because she's never a disturbing element in the class room.

Bob Behlen—Because he is an Eagle Scout.

Aileen and Maxine Parker — Because you never know whether Aileen is Aileen or Maxine, or whether Maxine is Maxine or Aileen, etc.

Carl Carlson—Because when only four boys out of your class are in the Honor Society, you automatically become famous.

Florence Meech — Because, while she may have lost her heart, she probably never lost her head.

Edward Craxton—Because his rumbling bass would be recognized in darkest Africa.

Frances Schmidt—Because she'd argue anywhere with anybody about anything.

Ruth Berry—Because of the way she can "tickle the ivories."

June Cook—Because of her ability to translate Virgil on the spur of the moment.

Hall of Fame

STUDENTS of the Radio History Class of 1933, we present to you this authentic page from the historic Shaw High Shuttle of 50 years ago.

For your vision and perusal, we now roll back the scroll of time to the Hall of Fame for the June class of 1933.

Bob Collins—The class president as well as Bing Crosby's nearest rival.

Ed Wolpaw—Shaw's swimming champ.

Helene Pur Dun—For her quiet distinctive personality.

Laurence Perrine—Because of his outstanding scholastic ability and his humorous poetry.

Bob Corning—His curly hair and ability as Hi-Y president are only two of his claims for fame.

Helen Tebbe—She played a mean queen in "The Queen's Husband."

Bob Zulauf—Who can play the piano like nobody's business.

Helen Barch—A genius at math and sports writing.

Bernard Clark—Because of his good-natured chuckle.

Ireanne Lewkowski—For her high scholastic standing.

Hugh Gunn—He looks like an Arrow Collar model and can spout poetry (his own).

Bud Roche—We remember having seen him smile once.

Mildred Sixt—The platinum blond with a brain and a voice.

Martha Leopard—Her sweet manner has won her many friends.

Evan Edwards—To be editor of the Shuttle is something.

Bill Burton—We have always considered him a perfectly groomed young man.

Harry Kurtz—Among other things, he can draw a mean set of false teeth.

Joan Speed—Who has been so active in the Student Council.

Harley Thompson—Because of his inimitable type of humor.

James Phillips—His versatility and genius at argument.

Betty Jane Curley—Because of her beautiful red blond hair.

James Barrett—He always has a genial greeting for everyone.

Elizabeth Rose—For her ability to rattle off French.

Muriel Patterson—Hers is the most intriguing nickname.

Nonsense in Names

One fine June Day while I was yet very young, I decided to take a walk to the zoo. I lost the book by Conrad which I had been reading at Rubin(off) on the radio. Through Gates and over fences I went. Remembering I had a call to make, I turned toward a telephone Booth. I stumbled over a brown Wicker lying among Tufts of grass, so I took it to feed the Hauck, or the Leopard at the zoo. Reaching the Booth I tried to get my number. After the Sixt d-thing I became angry and muttered, "There ought to be a Law or, better yet a Gunn should be used on Hoover invented these things. Heckman get it right this time." Finally in desperation I rang for the operator. "Nau" I started but the girl's sharp tongue rasped, "Thut, Thut, don't get into a Hoff-man. Uher Hart trouble will get worse." "Burr," was all I could ejaculate. "I want Eddy 0691." At last I reached my friend. I Toll(d) him of my difficulties. He Becked me to see his Newhouse which was nearly Dunn. The day being still Young I Todd(led) over. The First thing my friend asked was, "How do you like the Sotz and my Houseman?" I replied that the Hall was planned wrong, that the gutter ran the wrong way, and that the Rose, Zorn, and Beevy bushes between the Beecher the oak and the Kohl bin would soon die. He shot back, "It will be all right when the Koch tides up. That reminds me I need a new Heeder for the front room." "Ouch!" I yelped, barking my shins on the Spindle of a wheel-barrow. "Now I Havach, so I am going home for a Knapp."

June Class Prophecy

EDWARDS INVENTS MAMMOTH TELESCOPE

Sept. 5, 1964.—A radio-equipped telescope ten million times stronger than any other in the world is the latest product of the inventive genius, Evan Edwards.

Without waiting to read more I threw down my paper, picked up my hat, and rushed out the door. A taxicab piloted by Gilbert Allen was waiting at the curb, getting into the jam we turned through the crowded city air zones, past air cop Gordon Page, to the observatory of my old class mate.

"Another unique feature of this telescope," my friend continued, "is that its range may be curved. Thus we can see around the earth's curvature to, for instance, the north pole. Here, look."

I applied my eye to the telescope and a scene of ice and snow met my eyes. Out of a particularly deep drift rose a red and white striped pole—the pole! It advertised Walter Brandt's barber shop, where I recognized Jean LaFever getting her hair bobbed, and Charles Herzer getting his meat served. Clark Brown was polishing shoes and Bill Burrage washing windows. In the back room Robert Boylin and Ruth Greenwood were playing pool.

Around the corner was John Ingram's gambling casino and Harold Mosher's North Pole Real Estate Company.

"This is wonderful," I cried, and eagerly I turned the focusing dial to New York City. Immediately there appeared a chaos of noise and confusion. Newsgirls, Adeen Jones and Helen Bacon, were shouting the murder of the recent mayor, Robert Craig. The new talking advertising signs were blaring forth the praises of Dr. Gordon Curries's patent medicine, the endorsement by Margaret Jeromax of Harry Moody's green lipstick, and the fact that Neal Snowberger used June Day's cleaned swimmer's grease in his late swim across the Atlantic Ocean. The crash of two automobiles precipitated a street brawl in which Helen Dool and Glen Lowry were the chief participants. Policeman George Law arrested the pair and took them before Judge Warren Eisenhart. They were sentenced to ten weeks under Sheriff Bill Cozad at the municipal jail.

Down Broadway with its glitter of a million lights, one of Bernard Clark's nickel taxi plumes bore the debonair first rider, John Forrester. He stopped at Joe Diamond's famous theater where Hugh Gann's latest musical success, "The Blue Banana," was in progress. Edythe Hart had the lead, while George Hoover was starred in a comic role, and Margaret Bryant and Betty Hickman were in the chorus. A rival attraction across the street was Eleanor Richards' exclusive night club, featuring Gilbert Valentine's dance band, with Ella Mae Young starring on the floor show. A little further on, Tom Patrick's sports arena braced a wrestling match between "Tiger" Jack Martin and Floyd "Throttler" Kelson. Ernest Taylor was to be referee.

Over at Radio City, mechanic Gordon Richards was desperately trying to fix the wires so Dick Kennes would not miss George Wiener's daily bedtime story. Meanwhile, Eleanor Noll, soprano, and Elizabeth Rose, violinist, were broadcasting a beautiful duet, Paul Smedley was "Laying Down in the Aisles" as a comedian, and Robert Cudwell was crooning over the Blues Network. Martin Peterman was an announcer.

Looking toward the William Whitworth building, highest in the world, I came across the offices of Dick Lewis and James Phillips, world famous lawyers. Office boy George Reed had just left for his grandmother's funeral when Martha Leopard, society woman, came in with a million dollar suit against the keynote communist, John Zapf. She was informed by the pretty secretary, Dorothy Neal, that the two lawyers were in conference. In reality they were up at Hugh Young's roof garden playing miniature golf with Eleanor Morris, for whom they had just procured a divorce.

SHUTTLE

In the same building, a few stories below, were the headquarters of Kenneth Martineau's international one-cent to $1000 stores, and the rooms of the noted detective, Jack MacClanahan, and his biographer and publicity man, Dr. William Gates. Also in the building were the offices of Louis Hopkins, high-class milliner, Richard McCann, gentleman plumber, John Maxwell, undertaker, Bill Peck, ladies' losier, and William Schmucker, interior decorator. Robert Johnson was one of the elevator boys.

At the polo grounds, Dean Knapp's Cleveland Indians were playing Walker Woodworth's New York Giants for the world championship. Maurice Rose had just hit a home run and run around the bases the wrong way, but Captain Frank Lang got a pass. James Burt was twirling his hatless ball for the visitors, out in left field, Ira Uppel was posing for photographer Ross Bernard of the New York Moon, edited by Roy Angel. Centerfielder James Barrett was reading Hebe's Pub-Der's famous syndicated column in the daily paper, and right fielder Russell Pryor was chatting with some friends in the stands. In fact, the only ones paying any attention to the game at all were hotbox Richard Fottman and Harry Hank, who had found a stool ball in the center field fence. Ruth Kaiser was scoring peanuts in the stands, Paul Seacock was an umpire. Acting mayor Adolph Grasser had thrown out the first ball.

Tanning the glass to the New York harbor, I found Harold Morgan plotting the official welcoming ship out to meet the famed aviatix, Josephine Sharp, preparatory to a triumphal procession down Broadway. Arriving at the same time was Captain George and Nobi's great liner, "The Mannouth," of the George Pickercell line. Noted passengers aboard were Richard Ducker, European boxer invading America for a crack at champion Donald Ross, Dorothy Hanner, poet laureate of England, Lady Helen Tobbe, French noblewoman, Jack Thack, English socialist and Pulitzer prize winner, and Betty Reichenbach, German scientist.

Gazing rapidly over the rest of New York, I caught glimpses of Harley Thompson flirting with the statue of Liberty, Harry Kurtz, sidewalk artist, Grace Thet in a theater employment office, Walter Newhouse writing one of his best sellers, Charles Neely making hourly death-defying leaps from Brooklyn Bridge, Harry Pickering enjoying himself at the zoo, Helen Winer tearing her hair over the condition of the stock market in Wall Street, Harry Fox and John Tomlinson putting on a dancing exhibition at Madison Square Garden, Mildred Sixt training lions at Bronx Zoo, Dick Skidmore standing in a bread line, and Robert Rhodes gazing longingly at a "Join the Navy" sign.

I now turned the telescope to Washington, D. C., where I discovered, soundly sleeping at his desk in the Capitol, the president of the United States, Fritz Zorn. Sleeping equally soundly at their desks in the Senate chamber were Vice-president Elmer Zorn, Senators Eleanor Schneider, Ruth Hardy, Lloyd Martindale, and junior Bill Taylor. The cause for their slumbering was an oration by Robert Wurzman. In the other house Rob Zubul was entertaining the representatives with a piano solo, and Speaker Hearn Martley was keeping time with her mallet. In the Supreme Court, Grace McGoughe was throwing spit balls at Attorney general Rath Carman who was making an impassioned plea in behalf of the alleged counterfeiter, Ed Swindeman. Associate justices Isabella Pearson and George Booth were making personal experiments to discover whether or not four per cent beer is intoxicating.

Desiring a little foreign atmosphere I next literally focused my attention on Athens, Greece, where the Olympic games were in progress. Robert King was just announcing, in very fluent Greek, the start of the 5000 meter run. It was a terrific race and resulted in a dead heat between George Simon and Laurence Perrine. Meanwhile Dorothy Davidson, famous gun athlete, was emerging victorious in the shot put, and Ed Wojpaw was winning the 100 meter free style. In the stands were Manning Smith, who had lost his amateur standing from foul-pole sitting, Marvin Rubin, brilliant sports writer of the Associated Press, and Her Royal Highness Edith Smith, Queen of England. In a nearby coffee shop, Preston Dering and Harry Smith were gazing gaily which was being served by Betty Madden.

Curious as to what was happening in the old home town, I turned the telescope back to Cleveland. The first thing to catch my eye was steepjack Marjorie Koel painting the top of the flagpole on the terminal tower. On the square several hundred feet below, I recognized Elmer Brandt as one of the street cleaners, and over at the city hall I found Frank Nicholl among the councilmen. A six-day bicyclic race was going on at the public hall and one of the teams consisted of Margaret McCaffrey and Gladys Smith. The big event, though, was Mary Sloan's grand equestrian show on the lake front. Jane Stuart was the Barker and Cocket server, and on the inside Dorothy Schneider was ringmistress. Marion Hoffman and Margaret Harner performed ever so gracefully on the flying trapeze. Martha Pennington was a pommel horse clown. Dorothy Johnson and Jean Cuthbert were riders. Muriel Patterson was a stock character.

Back in good old East Cleveland I found Margaret Gleason as city manager and Vera Benesh as chief of police. Dorothy Holcher was now principal at Saaw High school and Mary Brown and Laine Remond were teachers. Howard Page was football coach. And imagine my surprise when I found Murray Large still serving time in the yard room.

To change the atmosphere a bit, let us look over to the continent of Asia. There we see Ralph Stephens attempting to dissect the huge coral reef off the coast. Norma Saccam is acting as his first assistant in the attempt. Inland, Mackey Schuf is erecting a huge barbed wire fence manufactured by the Harry Berkovitz Fence Corporation in an attempt to keep all the rabbits on the southern side of the fence, the section owned by Donald Crouse.

Pam Reek is trying his best, as the official of Sydney, to keep the rabbits on William Weber's ships and transfer them to another continent or drown them in the ocean. Robert Montgomery, the magistrate of Borneo, Elizabeth McIntosh, queen of Tasmania, and Dorothy Pease, empress of Madagascar, held a conference at the summer palace of Dorothy Coyn about the matter and protested this move, so the only thing left to do was to drown the rabbits in the ocean. They managed, with the help of Oscar McBurney to get several million off the coast and dump them overboard. This, they thought, would solve their weighty problem. But no such luck! The rabbits were of the "Charles Thompson species" that were able to swim, and they all swam back to the mainland and scattered all over the continent.

Eileen Rieth thought that she would be a craze and start a kangaroo farm. To start with she engaged Martha Fair to act as "kangaroo breed selector" and to choose all the kangaroos. Martha went right ahead and did such good "selecting" that she had only the finest animals of the highest class, in fact, the kangaroos became so "high class" that Eileen had to fire Ann Wende and Rath Sager as specialized trainers. When Eileen retired to a better life, she sold the business to Doris Toll who soon had more orders than she could successfully manage, there were several thousand new baby kangaroos and not enough baby carriages to go around. Hilda Griep, noted saxophone artist, together with Ruth Gier, a. g., the only woman boxer at the World Fair back in 1933, came to her aid with the idea of little cars with several trainers on the back of each for the "Maama" Kangaroo to drive with all her baby kangaroos reclining in the rear.

Now to see what happened to one of our best known classmates, let us look in on Bob Collins, who, thinking to make his fame worldwide, has a very large sheep ranch near the mining district at Kagoorac. Lawrence Anderson has the interesting job as first assistant shepherd. All he has to do is to see that the sheep report every evening at the corral, which is under the supervision of Wilbur Denk. Lawrence has worked out a scheme to save himself a great deal of work. He has a secretary, Mara Sturke, who takes care of all his business matters, and Marjorie Lewis who plans his social program.

The sheep on Bob's ranch are very well behaved due to the training of Edward Weiss; Ruth Warner has won them over with her huge salt farm on the neighboring ranch.

In Coolgardie, a mining center near Kagoorac, we see that the largest mine in the world at this time is being run successfully by Bill Burton. The foreman in charge under him is Arthur Heiss. Art has worked himself up to this position from one hundred and forty-fifth assistant miner. Wilbur Baycox is also a miner. Only his mine does not make minerals. He is a scientific miner who is deep in the study of Jane Adamson's "Interiors of Mines." Evangelina Adolph is at the head of his secretaries with Mary Zimo running as his second

SHUTTLE

"Varga" holds the coveted position of chief stenographer and confidant above the ranks of the other secretaries, who are Mera Boyd, a disillusioned maid who came to Australia on a pretext of a travel tour, Elrose Gould, an homeless neophyte, trying to find adventure and romance in Australia, Gladys Kern and Henriette Fisher, world wide celebrities in the field of aviation, also neophytes, helped by Bill and also searching the wide world for romance.

Now let us look eastward to the Hawaiian Islands. Bernice Paul and Eleanor Hill are very graceful dancers on the northern side of the island. On the southern side, Jane Thomas and Flora Lee, vie for honors. And does Bob Corning go for dancers in a leg way? Among the George Ralph Coconut Grove, Maxine Adler is tossing down coconuts from the trees to Vernon Jack who is standing at the bottom with a little woven basket that Sarah Berger made. Chris Grelock is taking a sunbath under a palm tree, while Jane Rose is taking his rose with a little feather. Russell Brimmer is a Hawaiian millionaire who has come here to benefit mankind with his inventions and experiments on the surf board. Ben Farick is perfecting a new board called the "speed racer" and as yet he has only the "racer" part accomplished; he says the speed will come naturally.

On the large pineapple farms, Esteban Bec is his assistant in a very cunning system invented by Leon Vincent and is "earning the surplus." Maria Dean supervises the planting, Helen Rothchild, the cultivator, Margaret Coleman, the harvesting, and Helen Davoka, the bookkeeping system. Cordelia Crowley has invented a new sprinkler system which works automatically and keeps the pineapples drip-paired to the right degree. Verna Anderson has compounded a fertilizer which makes the fruit grow to an enormous size and Melba Schenker has a novel method of coaxing. She gets into her special motor which goes along the ground at an altitude of six feet and coaxes them in groups of ten.

Genevieve Ford is a conwoman working for the Royal Bern Chocolate Works. On a liner headed for China from Hawaii, we see Lillian Kinsky, chief inspector of the dishwashers' bureau, Gordon Johnson, head of the boiler room scrubbers, Hazel Housman, head of the brunette stewardesses and Thelma Baxter, head of the blonde stewardesses. Jane Arters is the chief cook and Richard Hanscom is the chief "menuist."

Among the notable passengers are, Margaret Beaton, a well known traveling sales lady, Murray Beck, lady photographer for the Shanghai News, Violet Burgess, the Duchess of Old Long Hope, province of Peking, China, Robert Edity, famous violinist, Melvin Lee Garcke, scientist en route to explore the interior of a range owned by Lucille Willson, and Dorothy Heitsman, governess of the children of Mary K. Lamb.

Louise Huber, an all-around athlete from Padunk, Ohio, is preparing to attend the eighteenth Olympiad. Grace Hastings, her trainer, and Fawcett Wegner, her manager, are dashing around madly trying to book passage for Greece in order to enter their charge.

Let's look over to San Francisco, now, and observe the opera at the Thomas Craig Grove. Anne Buzzell, the latest "find" of Jim McKeon, the head of the Try It Once opera company, is putting on a special performance for the underprivileged children at the Adria Dancer Orphan home where Donald Neri is a matron. Sanford Chamber is a ticket taker, and Edith Manzelman shines among the ushers.

At the vaudeville colony in Hollywood, we find Bob Blair, rival to the best musical stars, Howard Randolph, assistant stage hand, Stacey Rodgers, producer, Desha Corning and his leading lady, Margaret Fletcher, who has made a sudden rise on the stage and screen, Genevieve Goeshing, rival of Polly Moran, Ethel Martin, costumer, and Zane Power, booking agent.

While looking for one of the popular night clubs, we see Jack Rodwell, rich cigar manufacturer, Elsie Roth, lady of a scam, James Byers, big butter and egg man, and Jack Van Bergen, still an eligible young bachelor.

Stopping at the Metropolitan race track we see many of our old class mates among the crowd. These are Howard Smyth, owner of many race horses, Irene Jones, young society debutante, John Hyland, wealthy owner of a steamship line, Bob Lutz, famous crumpion, Beverly Ford, aviator, Betty Fiske, housewife, Margaret Zetz, school teacher, and Don

Stewart, struggling artist.

At Twin Lakes, a swimming resort, we find Robert Lawell, fourth assistant golf champion, Rosalind Pinkstone, speed swimmer, Edson Hoch, caretaker, and at the cafeteria which serves the guests of this resort, we encounter Pauline Devereux, chief proprietress, Robert Kingsley, chief cook, Ann Emmert, waitress, and Luanabell Markey, French pastry maker.

Down the boulevard speeds Jeanette Polk in her high-powered limousine, already late in attending a house party given by Edith Latta at her summer home. Among the guests are Kathryn Melbourne, wife of a quarry master, Florence Pratt, cousin of a rubber dealer, and Gertrude Prusse, society editor of a large daily paper.

To change the geographic outlook rather drastically, it is going the way over to Paris. Along the Rue de la Paix, we see Madame "Reanne" Lowkowski taking charge of the latest creations in debutante fashions in her private salon. One of her most popular waitresses is Monique Perry. Ruth Zerk takes care of all the business and Jack Goldstein in full charge of all the deliveries in the New Model car track which Terry Allen invented for that purpose.

As we go to Crater de Montreux we discover signs advertising the two hundred fifty fourth dance marathon. Participating in this event are Dorothy Allen with Walter Roche and Dick Todd with Jean Speed. Michèle Kiraly is aiding Viola Swanson in serving refreshment for the march-dancers, and Eleanor Faison is keeping the office in line. They have been dancing for four months and both couples are determined to win the $10,000 prize awarded by Henry Hennen to the last couple left on the floor. In the orchestra which plays for them part time are Gordon Russett, second assistant violist, Edward Brendza, third fiddle, Carl Bernhardt, fourth violinist, Virginia Belyea, eighth accompanist, and Kathryn Morris, soloist. In the other orchestra which is being conducted by Thomas Cornbelt, capable virtuoso guitarist, are Wilbur Weiss, concert pianist, Robert Towsey, trumpet expert, Adolph Pyle, Spanish comb artist, Jerome Brumback, tin pan drum expert, and last but not least, LaVern Carr, acting as Swedish mouth-organist from the Alps.

We now have occasion to look in on an American vice versa company playing in Paris. Among those who were in our class are Ruth Crookham, tight rope artist, Betty Jane Criley, popular radio singer and entertainer, Jim Stokes, famous swimmer who lectures on the subject, Dorothy Stock, beautiful girl to whom women would pay as much as $10,000 for 20 minutes of her advice, and Alice Dawes, magician. This company is playing at the famous L'Empire which is managed by Jean Dennis and "re-managed" by Rita De Mortier. Helen Dorset is at the head of the ushers and has designed a new type of uniform for them.

Before we turn away from Paris, we must look in on the Hotel Parisian, noted for the celebrities who make it their temporary residence. On the register in the lobby we find many of our friends' signatures. Among these, with the help of the manager, we find Kathryn Fisher, wife of a traveling novelist, Midge Fremont, a wealthy broker's widow, Leonie Labow, artist of the futurist school, Janet Van Bergen, New York society editor, George Friedlander, aviator and inventor, Frances Frohman, known through her advice to the love-dorn in a Danish newspaper; and Ruth Hambly, wealthy bricklayer's fiancée.

In the tea room of this hotel we find Leonie Greer, blond "Follies" actress, and Elizabeth Hawthorne, play writer, having tea. As we were about to leave this picture we noticed Viola Furst, international favorite entertainer in tap dancing and piano playing, about to join these two of her old class-mates.

In the lobby we saw Ruth Harris who works as a hat check girl, and they say she is "making good" at it.

Boom! Crash! Ow - - - gee! How my head hurts. Strange as it seems, I have fallen out of bed while sleeping, and have given my head a good crack. Regardless of the ill effects of my fall, I can recall with astonishing clarity, the essence of my slumbering dreams.

Heavyweight Football

Finishing the 1932 season with its best record in five years, the Shaw Heavyweights came through with a letter for the league championship. Out of nine games, Shaw won six, tied one, and lost two. Bundling its Center, corner, and halfbacks into five plays and two light weight blockers, Coach Seelye turned out a well-burnished outfit. "A. J. Adams," he said, "that was the finest bunch of boys I've ever worked with."

Had it not been for serious injuries occurring at critical moments, our powerful machine probably would have had a better record. When H. J. Cuddy broke his collar bone in the Lakewood game, Mr. Seelye was forced to change his whole style of play. Corning was cut up with a knee injury and the holes and of its new "ward" defensive play when he was most needed.

Notwithstanding these restrictions, Shaw had the honor of placing Howard Pearce on the local all-star team. Bob Bittle gained a berth on the second team, and two others received honorable mention: John Snively and Tony Gaudio.

Shaw stepped off to a good start by pouncing out a 14-7 defeat over John Adams in the regular season followed by two others. For their second victory, our gladiators topped a powerful first layer, 14-0. Next came a blow over Lakewood Center, over whom we gained an easy 23-0 win; scoring but two points in the second quarter.

After an open date, our boys were hosts to Lakewood for the initial league contest. Although the Westsiders put up a splendid battle, Shaw defeated them 12-0. With Hackstedt unable to play, Seelye relied on a line of defense. For a Youngstown Raven. B. L. H. Boys from down state fell as the others had for our fifth consecutive victory, 6-0.

When Shaw invaded Heights, our jinx of the last few years seemed to return; and we had to be content with a 6-6 tie. In the final game, the team that its stride and for the first time in league history downed the big Clarkson machine, 12-8. This game showed our team in its true colors, for we decisively outplayed the home team in a torrid battle.

The fourth game was a bitter disappointment. No matter how hard the Shaw line tried, they couldn't make any headway against the Steel City boys. They lost, 12-0. In the final game of the season, Collingwood, the Senior champion, visited our field and treated us to the short end of a 19-0 score. The mighty Railroad is back the Shaw team off their feet with their smashing off tackle drives and downed the Black and Red 19-0 in the final clash of the season.

Lightweight Football

The Shaw Lightweight football team for 1952 was again the Lake Erie league champion, but this year our boys were using the Lakewood Lighties. As a result of their scoreless tie with the Westsiders, we were forced to be content as co-champions. This year's eleven proved to be one of Shaw's strongest teams, excellent strength and skill in every branch of the game. Under the skillful guidance of Mr. Nimmerger and Mr. Avian, the nuggets went through the year without a single defeat. During the season these boys scored 139 points, while not one opponent crossed their goal line.

With eight lighties coming from last year's championship team, the team at once hit its stride and easily outclassed most of its opponents. A great test of its versatility came after the Lakewood game, when seven regular backfield men were put on the shelf with injuries. However, the next week, when it was entirely revamped, the team cracked with its usual precision. Outstanding in this year's achievements was the victory over the heavy John Hay boys. The excellent use of their goal line in the Greenwood game, when the Red Raiders failed to gain the necessary 9 yards in ten downs, was also a credit play.

In the season's opener Shaw defeated the John Hay varsity, 35-8 on 11-13, which was the only shutout the big Green team received in the whole year. The next to last were the Bedford Heavyweights who were no easy victims to the Fighting Lighties with a 25-0 score. Then came the Collinwood Reserves, who took the count to the tune of 34-0. For the first league game our nuggets tackled the Lakewood Lighties, but the game ended 0-0. In an undramatic but thoroughly well-fought Shaw game is outplayed the East Reserves 12-0 in an exciting contest.

When the Black and Red mixed it up with Heights, there was no doubt as to which Lightweight team was superior. Our boys came back with a 19-0 victory over the Hill-toppers. In a hard fought battle at Avian, the 140-pounders again proved their mettle and tripped the home team 14-0. Finishing a perfect season with a brilliant 26-0 victory over Lorain, the Lighties credited Shaw with another league championship.

Heavyweight Basketball

The Black and Red Heavyweight basketball team again met with pronounced success during the 1932-33 season, tying Lakewood for the Lake Erie League title with six victories and two defeats for a percentage of .750. Including independent games, the team won 11 games with two defeats. Such teams as Collinwood, East, and John Hay fell before our champions.

Lorain and Elyria lost two games apiece to Shaw; Shaw 27, 36 and Lorain 18, 19; and Shaw 24, 29, Elyria 23, 14. Heights and Lakewood defeated Shaw in their first encounters, but were conquered in the final games. The scores were Shaw 21, 34, Heights 23, 26; Shaw 27, 29, Lakewood 29, 27.

Elwood Hagey was the mainstay of the team. Shaw's lanky center scored 141 points in the 13 games played. Pearce and Milcoff were forward threats. Balstad and Hackstedde played proficiently as guards.

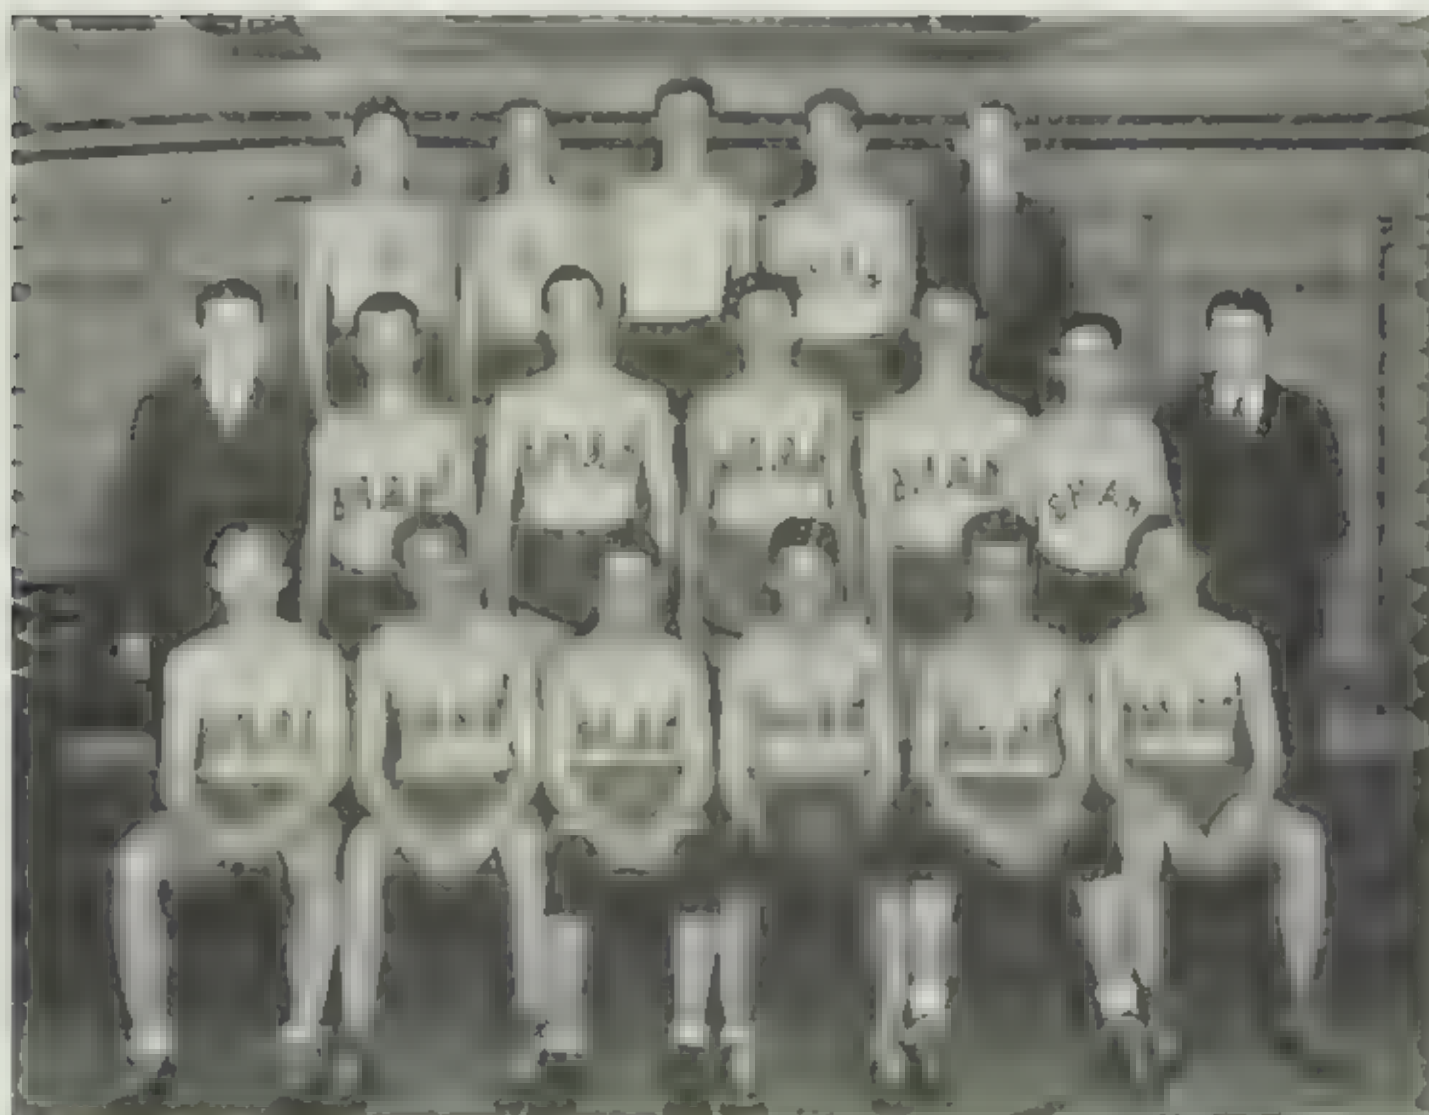

When Pearce, Milcoff, Hackstedde, and Balstad left in mid-year, John Snively and Peckinpaugh as forwards, Heinlen and Baker as guards filled their places to comprise another of Shaw's championship teams.

Lightweight Basketball

The Shaw Lightweights brought the first Lake Erie League Lightweight basketball championship to Shaw since 1928. The midgets won seven of their league games and lost one contest to Heights by a 32-31 score.

Acting-captain Ralph Maltby was a fine center. Walter Nims and Bill Snively were high scorers as the Lighties' forwards. Dick Kehoe and Douglas Gottron played consistently at their guard positions.

When any of the boys mentioned were not playing well, Adelstein, Langer, Deming, or Neely acted as a capable substitute.

Baseball

Another successful season ended, for the fifth time in seven years, for Shaw Baseball team was one of the two best in the region, scoring championship prizes with Lakewood. The Black and Red nine won 14 games and lost but 3 in its 17 game schedule.

Effectively managed by Roy Payson and "Howie" Pearce, with heavy batting by Captain Jerry Nook and "Ole" Haggerty, next year's captain, the record of the team showed the team Nook at first base, Swartz at second, Peck at pitcher at short, and Meltzer at third formed a good defensive unit. Pearce and Eisenhart alternated at catching, both doing well as receivers and batmen. Haggerty, Haggerty, and Wagner composed a strong defensive and offensive outfield.

The Cornol team closed their season against a strong Warren team in the feature game of the year at Warren, Ohio. In a pitchers' battle, the local team was handily edged by a 1-0 score.

Swimming

The Shaw swimming team of 1932-33 had a hard job on its hands to keep up the excellent record of the 1931-32 squad.

The mermen won their first eight meets. Shaker and West Tall Hill easily. The next meet was a hard one to crack when they beat East Tall by only 39-36. Akron East, Elyria, Western Reserve Academy, and University school all went down to defeat before the superior splashes of the Shaw fish.

Then came Lakewood, Shaw's old jinx—Shaw came through by the slim margin of one point, 38-37. With only one dual contest to go, Heights put the Indian sign on Shaw, 45-30, for Shaw's first defeat of the year.

In the Lake Erie League meet, the Black and Red splashers took third with 23 workers. In the Northeastern District meet, Shaw captured fourth position with 18 points.

Captain Eddie Wolpaw was the chief point-getter, winning two firsts in nearly every meet. Stewart, Boylan, Cain, Hornke, Wright, and Whitworth were other mainstays of the team.

Track

Last spring the Shaw track team had a very successful season. Mr. Offinger's proteges won every race meet they entered and showed up well at the various county and district meets. Led by Captain John Maxwell, state high jumper champion, the Shaw endermen were a force to be reckoned with. Throughout the season Maxwell was a consistent point gatherer, averaging 15 points per meet.

The decisive victories, won over Heights, University School, and Bedford, clearly demonstrated the team's power. The year before, Heights had completely humbled us, but not so last year. For the first time in years Shaw was able to defeat the strong University School group. Even though Bedford was the champion of the Eastern Conference, she fell an easy prey to our tracksters.

Other individual successes by Maxwell were Harkstade, weights; Oram, high jump and broadjump; Kibby, half mile; Kahoe, mile; and Hemerdinger, weights.

Cross Country

Shaw's cross country team enjoyed a triumphant season in 1932, with victories in both dual meets and high standings in all the others.

Coach Offinger built this team from a wealth of promising material. The boys who won places earned them from a large group of competitors. Alfred Cardona was chosen captain of the team. Taylor Kahoe and Roland Glauser were outstanding, always running a good race.

At the opening of the season, Shaw easily crushed East Tech's runners by the score 17 to 41.

In the Northeastern District meet, Shaw won second place with Kahoe, Glauser, Manzelman, Balstad, and Simon placing.

In the state meeting at Columbus, Ohio, the Blue and Red runners placed fourth. Lakewood, Lincoln, and Seon High Schools won the first three positions. In this race, Shaw's leading runner, Taylor Kahoe, placed third.

To climax a successful season, the red-jersied runners smothered Collinwood, 21-34. Kahoe led all the way with Glauser close behind. Manzelman, Cardona, Muzz, and Simon, all of Shaw, were following to defeat the Blue and Gray team.

Tennis

The Shaw Tennis Team of 1932 had a very poor season, winning but one of its four scheduled matches.

The first match of the season was with Lakewood, which the Lavender team won by a 0-5 result.

The following week the Shawites outclassed a strong Elyria squad, 3-2.

Lakewood, for five years Lake Erie League tennis champion, journeyed to Shaw and won a 0-5 victory.

The Black and Red netters closed their season with a 2-3 defeat at the hands of Cleveland Heights.

Mileoff, Silberman, and Ascherman held the singles positions while Hagey, Rubin, Adelstein, and Weber were the doubles men. Reserves were Forrester, Sturgiss, Sugarman, Arnold, Mueller, and Stricker.

The Athletic Council was formed to promote girls' after-school athletics. The original group was chosen by Miss White in 1929. Each girl remains a member until her graduation; vacant places are filled by election.

Each girl has charge of a sport. A volley-ball tournament is held in the fall. Throughout the winter and early spring, the basketball tournament is played. Ice skating is a popular sport from late fall to early spring. The girls can engage in tumbling and baseball in the spring. Riding, hiking, and swimming are all year activities supervised by the Athletic Council.

"Gym Jams", a play originated and executed in the girls' physical education department, was sponsored by the Athletic Council in the spring of '32.

Volley Ball

The major sport for girls in the fall was volley ball. Marion Tissot, a member of the girls' Athletic Council, was in charge of the tournament. Twelve teams were organized, whose captains were:

Seniors—Margaret Gleason, Irene Jaces, and Frances Lothrop

Juniors—June Finnegan, Bernice Landenbaum, Wilma Starke, and Marion Volek

Sophomores—Ruth Essel, Kathleen Feldman, Camilla Geckler, Edith Rice, and Henrietta Tipton

A round-robin tournament was arranged in which every team played every other team

Frances Lothrop's team, the winner, was composed of the following seniors:

Madge Freund, Ruth Giering, Frances Greenfield, Ellen Kast, Frances Lothrop, Margaret Moody, Verna Osgood, and Mary Sloan.

The best players in the tournament were selected and divided into two teams, Harvard and Yale. In their annual battle, Harvard won. The teams were composed of the following girls:

Harvard—Marian Allen, Frances Lothrop, Margaret Mulligan, Verna Osgood, Julia Regal, Mary Sloan, and Henrietta Tipton.

Yale—Margaret Buechler, Sylvia Diamond, Madge Freund, Ellen Kast, Martha Robb, Nan Stirling, and Marion Volek.

Basket Ball

The first basketball game was played December 12, 1932. The season lasted from that date to April 6, 1933, when Army played Navy. The best players of the season were selected to play on the Army and Navy teams. April 6 was considered a gala event. The players and the Leaders' club invited their mothers to see the game and to have tea afterward. Navy won, 34-28.

The tournament, in which 15 teams participated, was very exciting. The captains of the teams were:

Verna Osgood, Eleanor Hall, Marion Volek, Bernice Lindenbaum, Nan Stirling, June Finnegan, Helen Hackstedde, Harriette Feldner, Ruth Law, Joyce Shelly, Adell Sutkus, Henrietta Tipton, Catherine Marting, Betty Hauswald, and Edith Rice.

Approximately 140 girls engaged in this sport this year.

Miss White conducted a course in refereeing for all girls who wished to attend. The girls who were judged capable of refereeing were:

Almeda Brubaker, Frances Lothrop, June Finnegan, Marion Volek, and Nan Stirling.

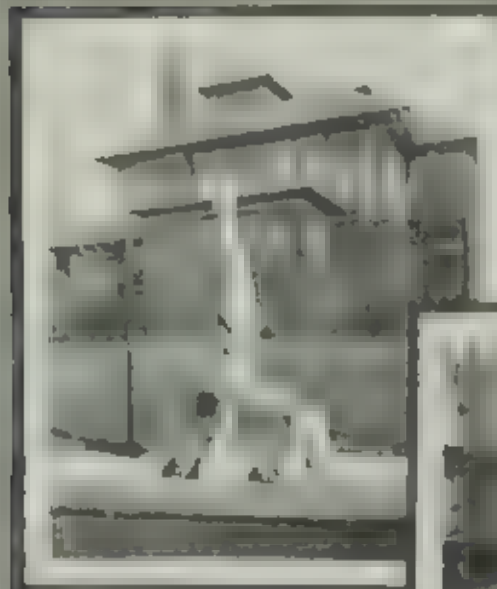

Donia Miller had charge of all scoring. Her assistants were:

Eleanor Hall, Catherine Marting, Helen Palford, Julia Regal, Wilma Starke, and Nan Stirling.

Life Saving

Senior and Junior Life Saving tests, are purposely made difficult so that no one incapable of saving a life will pass the test. The girls are taught all the phases of rescuing some one from drowning. These are: approaching the drowning person; if necessary, breaking any of the holds which a drowning person is likely to use; swimming with him to shore; carrying him from the water; and reviving him by artificial respiration.

In addition to these requirements, there are others the girls must meet; such as, bringing a ten-pound weight from the bottom of the pool. After Miss Anderson had instructed the girls, they were tested by an examiner authorized by the American National Red Cross. Last year, the following girls passed the tests:

BURNING QUESTIONS

What we want to know is why Jimmie Esch wears such awful color schemes

And why Jimmy Phillips' socks don't match his ties.

When Vi Furst will grow up.

Where Ralph Stevens digs up the horrible ideas for original themes.

Why 99 1-9 per cent of the girls in Shaw wear middies, and 99 4-9 of the boys wear green sweaters.

What's the use of having a humor section.

Why more bright persons don't join the Annual Staff and get the Annual free. (We got jipped. We just semi-annuals.)

Aspiring Senior: "Mr. Dietrich, what would you advise me to read after I leave Shaw—since I'm not going to college?"

Joe: "No."

Mr. Struggles: "Cleveland?"

Joe (brightly): "Is his last name Ohio?"

Miss Jones: "What! you don't know the French for dog? You told me you had a French nurse for years."

Bob Burton: "Oh, but Miss Jones, we didn't have a dog when Adele was with us."

GRADING SYSTEM

Our idea of an ideal grading system for the first six weeks after vacation would be to give the best grades to the persons who have forgotten the most during the summer. In this way the whole school would be on the honor roll.

PENWOMANSHIP

Who is this teacher that has the distinction of being told by one of her own pupils that she has three varied types of writing: one that she can read, one that her pupils can read, and one that is a puzzle for even a Chinaman?

Parent: "I wish you'd get 'good' on your report cards, and not always 'fair'."

Howie: "I know, Dad. But the last intelligence test I took showed that I'm an ordinary boy of ordinary parents, and as that is an ordinary grade—what do you expect?"
